Introduction

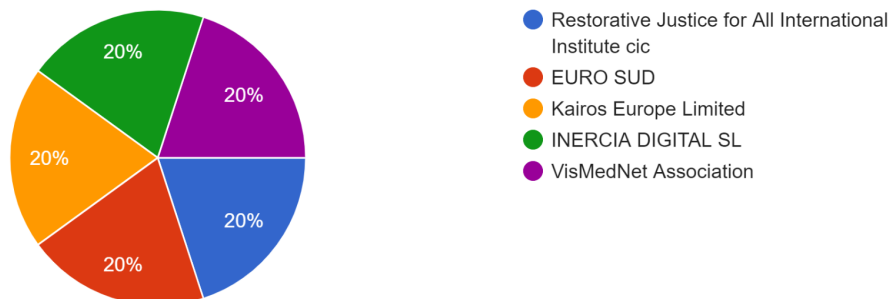

In light of the progress of the SIAC project, EUROSUD Association organized the third transnational project meeting with representatives of all project partners. The meeting was held in Bari on 30th September 2022. EUROSUD, as responsible for the evaluation, prepared a basic Google Form Survey to simplify compilation at the end of the meeting.

The following pages summarize the main finds of the evaluation report.

Evaluation report

The third transnational project meeting was an occasion for the project consortium to meet physically again. Furthermore, all partners attended it and as well they participated in the survey.

All of the participants had similar expectations for this meeting and that were to follow the progress of the project, to clarify all the doubts regarding e-course and to discuss about the current state of the project and plan for the final activities until the end of the project. Additionally, debates related to defining joint strategy, how to reach the target of participants and to understand better how to complete the IO3 SIAC book were expected. As a consequence, expectations were all met.

General organization of the meeting

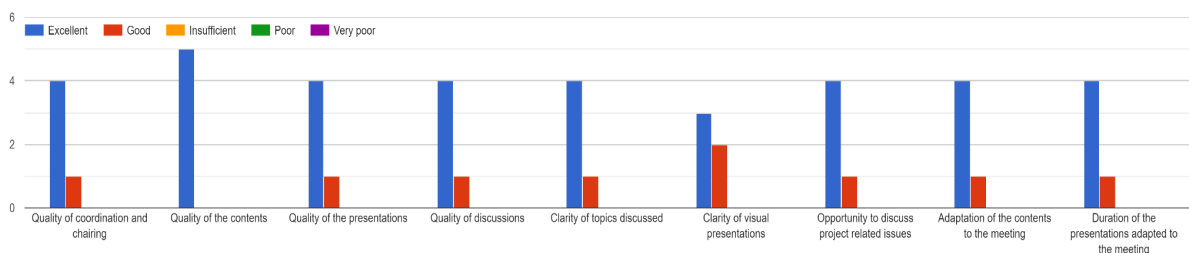

General organization of the meeting

Without a doubt, it can be said that the meeting was managed very efficiently and the meeting space was appropriate for all participants. Following with high satisfaction about updates on the project, the high level of diversified activities and balance between meeting and free time. Altogether, all the participants would like to give a thumbs up for the management of the EUROSUD association.

Contents and structure of the meeting

Contents and structure of meeting

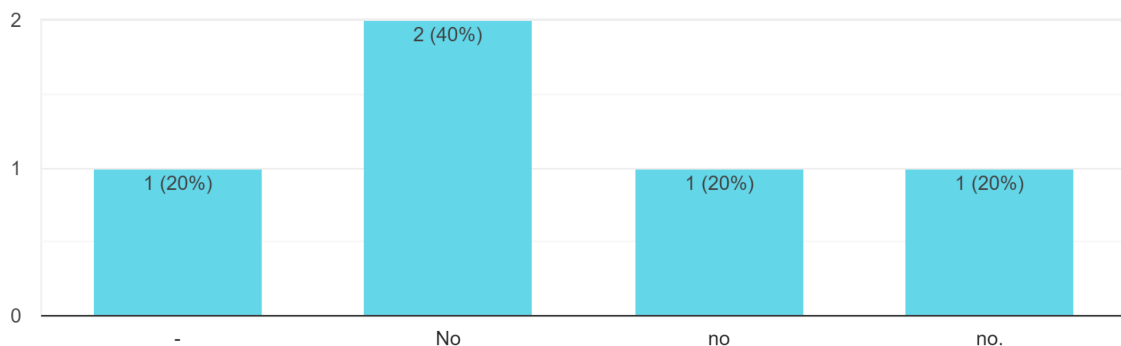

To begin with the quality of the coordination, contents, presentations and discussions all the participants were highly satisfied with above mentioned matters. It can be noticed that the structure of the meeting was truly satisfying. Furthermore, the partners are highly skilled in making visual presentations and follow set up limits of time. Attendees reported that they were strongly impressed with the topics discussed during the transnational project meeting.

Emphasizing

Were there any specific topics that should have been emphasized less?

5 responses

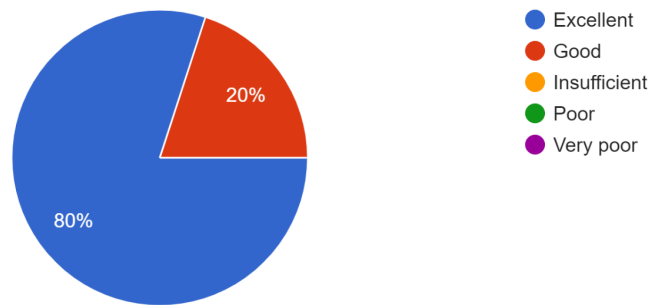

To begin with, there were not any specific topics that should have been omitted nor any specific topics that should have been added. Although participants had not seen any specific topics that should have been emphasized less, it would be very useful to discuss more about e-course piloting during the next meeting as well as to check the data regarding the e course.

Communication among partners

Compared to the first report from Malta, there has been a significant improvement. All participants are extremely satisfied with the communication. Suggestions from the Malta report for clearer and more frequent communication have been implemented, as well as suggestions to meet online every three weeks to push the relationship forward. In addition, the google meetings are being made effective and this has been very much appreciated by the partners.
