Evaluation report

Transnational project meeting – Spain

06/04/2022

Prepared by: EUROSUD

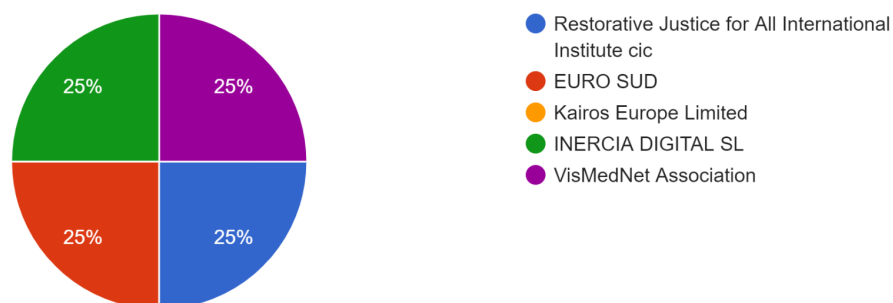

Introduction

The Inercia Digital organised the second transnational project meeting that was attended by representatives of four project partners. Partner Kairos didn't attend the meeting due to prior commitments on that day. The meeting was held in Huelva on 6th April 2022. EUROSUD, as responsible for the evaluation, prepared a basic Google Form Survey to simplify compilation at the end of the meeting.

Evaluation report

The second transnational project meeting was an occasion for the project consortium to meet physically for the second time. All present participants have enjoyed the common session.

Partner

Related to the basic expectations of the meeting, all the partners were expecting discussion about implementation and clarification of the next project steps. Besides the above mentioned discussion, partners expected to be part of the meeting indeed meeting partners in person and strengthening the relations. Furthermore, the meeting did accomplish overall expectations of partners.

Organization of the meeting

In general, the meeting was well organised and managed. Besides that the length of the meeting was adequate together with balance between working period and free time. It would be useful next time to provide more information about logistics and be more detail-oriented. But altogether, all the participants would like to give thumbs up for the management of the Inercia Digital.

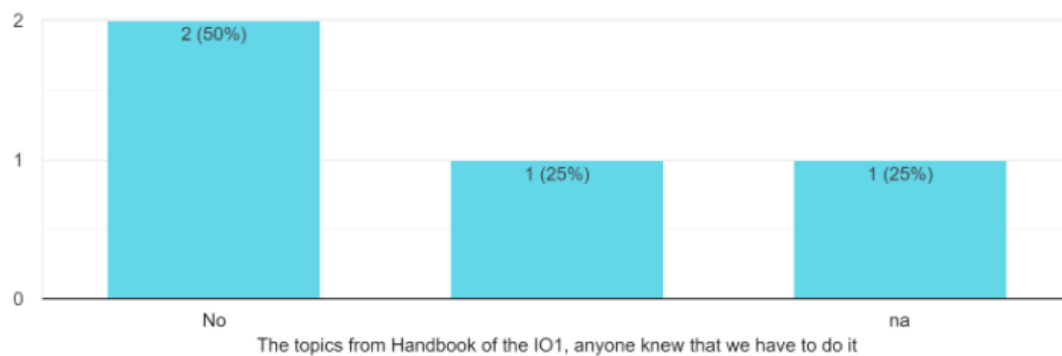

Contents and structure of meeting

Related to the contents and structure for the next project meetings, partners will not need to act differently because the main project topics were covered and the partners could continue like that also next time. Apart from that, there were not any specific topics that should have been omitted or added. Quality of the presentations and quality of discussions were excellent or good for all the partners as well as clarity of topics discussed and visual presentations. All partners dispose with a high level of soft skills and graphics skills. In the end, the contents, organisation and structure of the meeting met all expectations of the partners.

Were there any specific topics that should have been emphasized more?

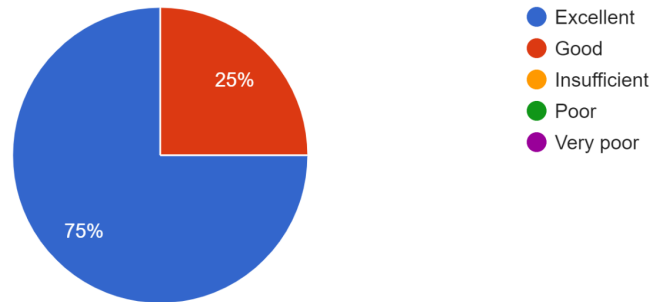

4 responses

On the one hand, the partners think that there were not specific topics that should have been discussed less. But on the other hand, one partner out of four thought that the topics related to Intellectual output 1 and 2 should have been discussed more. So for the next online and personal meetings it would be a great idea to discuss it even further.

The communication among participants

How would you rate the communication among participants
4 responses

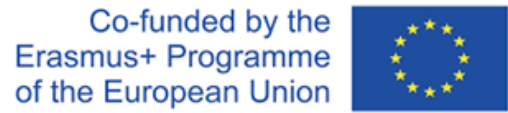

In comparison with the previous report, there is a big improvement. All the participants are highly satisfied with communication. Suggestions from the last report related to clear and more efficient communication between each other were done as well as suggestions to meet online every three weeks to enforce relations. Moreover, the Google meetings are effective and partners really appreciated that. To conclude, partners would appreciate reminders from the project coordinator before the deadlines and maybe arrange a phone call one to one to discuss the proper task.

General comments and suggestions

Altogether, there were 4 participants in the meeting in Huelva, Spain. All the subjects were discussed and partners have gained a clear view for the next tasks. The general expectations of the meeting were fulfilled and partners are ready for the next project activities. Furthermore, it is better to provide more precisely information about transportation and logistics before the meeting to avoid any complications. Partners see improvement in communication which has gained a level of excellence. For the next meeting, it would be great if all the partners would participate to meet each other and debate another steps together.

In the nutshell, partners were deeply satisfied with the transnational project meeting. The work environment in Spain was wonderful and it is also nice to see partners in person. The associations are looking forward to another meeting and as a result, partners clarified the next action points.
